

PRESS RELEASE

Viva il re! is now on iPhone and iPod Touch!

The amusing board game of palace intrigue created by Stefano Luperto and designed by dV Giochi, is now available from the Apple Store as a videogame, developed by Pro-netics!

Perugia, 2009 December 04

Viva il re! has been published in several countries and has endeared gamers and families around the world. Finally it has been adapted for iPhone and the iPod Touch.

Thanks to the interactive game mode and fresh, catchy graphics, the play has become even simpler and more intuitive.

dV Giochi and Pro-netics have worked in collaboration on the development of this game, and are poised to promote their first joint product in the booming app market.

Together these two leaders in their fields have come together to create an exciting new entertainment app that is engaging, amusing, and most important: fun! Viva il re!

© dV Giochi is a publisher of strategy and family games in both the national and international market. They work through a close net of partners and distributors around the globe, and is considered a leader in the field of quality Italian games.

Contacts: da Vinci Editrice S.r.l. – info@dvgiochi.com – www.dvgiochi.com

(pro-netics)

Pro-netics delivers solutions based on systems integration services for enterprises in both Italian and European market with specific skills in mobile solutions and Open Source products.

Pro-netics has partnerships with the major Commercial Open Source companies and actively participates in the most prominent Open Source communities.

Contatti: Pro-netics S.p.A. – info@pronetics.it – www.pro-netics.com